① The Annals of Saint Anne reserves the right to refuse an advertisement for personal reasons or when the advertisement may contribute to damage its corporative image. Advertisements will be submitted and evaluated by the Editing committee for approval or refusal. If the given material is adequate, The Annals of Saint Anne guaranties the quality of the final printed product. In case of reasonable dissatisfaction from the client, the advertisement will be modified and published without charge in the next issue.

② The Annals of Saint Anne is published 6 times yearly and sent to 22,000 subscribers. The French magazine called La Revue Sainte Anne is published 11 times yearly and sent to 55,000 subscribers. In most homes where The Annals of Saint Anne is present, other readers will benefit from its content and its advertisements.
